“Cookies” refer to small files which are stored on the users’ computers. Within the cookies, various data can be stored. A cookie serves primarily to store data about a user (and/or the device upon which the cookie is stored) during or after his visit to an online website. Temporary cookies, and/or “session cookies” or “transient cookies” refer to cookies which are deleted after a user leaves an Online Website and closes his browser. In such a cookie, for example, the content of a shopping basket can be stored in an online shop or a log-in status. Cookies are referred to as “permanent” or “persistent” which remain stored even after the browser is closed. Thus, for example, the log-in status can be stored if the user searches for it several days later. The interests of the users can likewise be stored in such a cookie which is used for the purposes of audience reach measurements or marketing. “third-party cookie” refers to cookies which are offered by other providers than the Responsible Party who operates the Online Website (otherwise, if it is only his cookies, one speaks of “first-party cookies”).

We may utilise temporary and permanent cookies and shall discuss them in detail in our Data Protection Declaration.

If the users would not like for cookies to be stored on their computer, they are asked to deactivate the corresponding option in their browser’s system settings. The stored cookies can be deleted via the browser's system settings. However, the blocking of cookies can result in functional restrictions of this Online Website.

A general objection to the usage of cookies for the purposes of online marketing may be declared with regards to numerous services—above all, in the event of tracking via the U.S. website <http://www.aboutads.info/choices/> or the EU website <http://www.youronlinechoices.com/>. Furthermore, blocking of cookies can be attained via their deactivation via the browser's settings. Please keep in mind that, where applicable, not all functions of this Online Website will be able to be used.

Most of these data can be viewed online and also passed on to the customer.

If the provider decides to integrate a calendar into our system, the released data shall be stored in the Spacebase system and both the customers as well as also the employees can view these data (vacant/occupied). Google Tag Manager is a service that allows marketed website tags to be managed using an interface. Tags are small code elements that help to measure and analyse web traffic, user behaviour, the effectiveness of online marketing and of marketing channels, to make us of re-marketing and focus on target groups, and to test and optimise our website.

The Tag Manager tool itself (which implements the tags) is a cookie-less domain and does not register personal data.

Google Adwords

We shall, upon the basis of our rightful interests (i.e. interest in the analysis, optimisation and commercial operation of our Online Website in accordance with Art. 6 Para. 1 lit. f GDPR), utilise Google Adwords, a tool from Google Inc., 1600 Amphitheatre Parkway, Mountain View, CA 94043, USA ("Google"). Google is certified in accordance with the Privacy Shield Convention and hereby provides a guarantee to follow European data protection law (<https://www.privacyshield.gov/participant?id=a2zt000000001L5AAI&status=Active>).

To market our services, we are using google ad words and for this reason google's conversion tracking for a personalized, interest based and location related online marketing.

We have enabled adwords' IP-anonymization settings to ensure anonymisation.

The ads will be displayed after searches on one of the sites of the google advertising network.

It is possible for us to combine our ads with certain search requests. Cookies help us to display ads based on previous visits of a user on our website. With clicking on the ad, a cookie will be stored on your computer.

This technology is used to inform google and us as a customer of google that a user clicked on an ad and was directed to our website. The gained information will be used solely for a statistical analysis to optimize our ads.

We are not receiving information that allow us to identify an individual user. The reports from google include the total number of visitors that clicked on an ad and whether they were forwarded to one of our pages that include a conversion tag.

Based on these statistics, we can measure how often our ads were clicked and which of these ads lead to a contact or a booking by a user.

Regularly, we are comparing these booking data with our anonymised booking data. For this reason, we are sending our internal booking ID and other relevant information (e.g. the booking value) to google in the event of a booking, making contact, or other activity on our website. This information is only used for statistical reasons and not accessible for others.

If you do not want that cookies are being stored for this purpose, you could, for example, deactivate cookies in your browser's settings. In this case, your visit is not recorded in the statistics. You could also choose to change the type of ads that you see or to deactivate personalized advertising in the preferences on google's website (<https://adssettings.google.com/authenticated>). Alternatively, you can deactivate cookies by third party with the opt-out tool of the networkadvertising initiative (<http://optout.networkadvertising.org/?c=1#!/>).

Nevertheless, google and us will still receive statistical data on the number of users that visited our website. If you do not want to be part of this statistic, you can use additional programs for your browser (e.g. the tool Ghostery).

Additional information on this topic can be found here:
(<https://support.google.com/adwords#topic=3119071>).

If you do not want to receive any personalized advertisement from us on other web pages, please deactivate this feature on google's site. (<https://support.google.com/ads/answer/2662922?hl=de>).
